

Engr. Lourdes Lasian

Industrial Engineering Department Adamson University, Manila, Philippines

Engr. Lourdes Lasian is currently an Assistant Professor in the Industrial Engineering Department of Adamson University, Manila, Philippines. Engr Lasian holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Engineering from University of Sto Tomas and finished her Master's degree in Business Administration from San Sebastian College-Recoletos Manila. She is currently pursuing her doctorate degree in Industrial Phd in Engineering at UCSI University in Kuala Lumpur Malaysia. Engr Lasian has 24 years of combined work experience both from Manufacturing and Service Industry and handled various position in the field of Operations Management, Quality Assurance and in Account Management. She has taught courses in management, feasibility and other professional course. She has published and presented research papers both local and international. She served as session chair and panel speaker in some of the international and local conferences.